

Located in Gardiner, NY, Tuthilltown Grist Mill is the oldest continuously operated water powered gristmill in New York State and is listed on the National Register of Historic Places. The original gristmill structure was constructed in 1788 by 18 year old Selah Tuthill and used an overshot wheel to power the grinding stones. It is one of three mills which have operated on the Shawangunk Kill over the past 300 years. During the last two centuries, the mill has undergone a series of upgrades and additions. It is located off Albany Post Road, which originally served as the main route from New York City to Albany for 190 years.

A classic wood covered bridge crossed the Shawangunk Kill at the gristmill. Until the railroad was constructed in the 1930s, Tuthilltown was the commercial, cultural and social center of the town now called Gardiner.

In the early 1950s, the mill began grinding kosher matza flour which continued until 2003. Though the gristmill is no longer grinding flour, the mill was opened to visitors as a country store. This allowed everyone a first hand look at this unique building. Throughout the facility there were functional pieces of mill equipment, shafts, hoppers, grain elevators, hullers, blowers and the original stone grinding wheels.
